

This applies to carports only

* (h) not involve the construction of a new driveway or gutter crossing unless the consent of the relevant road authority for each opening of a public road required for the development has been obtained under the Roads Act 1993.

This assumes a metal development and hence the rule : if located on bush fire prone land and is less than 5m from a dwelling, the development must be constructed of non-combustible material is satisfied

While every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy of this diagram, you must confirm all of your decisions with your local council.